SAVE MONEY WITH RECYCLED CONTAINERS

Whether you're on a budget or just want to do your part to protect our environment, recycling and repurposing household organizing containers make good sense. Here are a few ideas to get you started...

Shoe boxes: They're the perfect size and shape for holding so much more than shoes. Stash small gardening tools, sorts socks, or hold special cards. Use your imagination!

Oatmeal boxes, coffee cans, and tall potato chip containers: These drum-shaped containers can hold anything tall and lean, from kitchen implements to paintbrushes.

Check boxes: Organize office supplies, such as pens, rubber bands, index cards, note cards, and envelopes. Or configure a few in your junk drawer for a perfect fit.

Film canisters and mint tins: These cute containers can hold tiny things like push pins or paper clips. They also make great travel buddies for jewelry.

Tissue boxes: Use them to store plastic shopping bags (when you need one, they pop out one at a time!) or collect trash in your car.

Baby food jars: Separate nails, screws, washers, and other hardware by size.

Laundry detergent boxes: Decorate with colored paper and use them to hold magazines. Your peace of mind will be your true reward.
